On a Lingoo.com Living Language Holiday, you can stay in the home of a local to improve your language skills all day. It's a new way to travel the world and get inside a culture.

Whether travelling as a family, adult group, or single adult, you'll find some warm and friendly welcomes waiting for you in some amazing locations all over the world on Lingoo.com. You might be studying for a professional qualification, brushing up your language skills, preparing for a job overseas or just want a more authentic cultural experience. A Living Language Holiday can help you do all of these things as part of an experience like no other.

Choose your ideal host...

There are thousands of approved hosts on Lingoo.com waiting to welcome you into their home, support your language learning, and show you the local sights and sounds. You choose who you stay with and for how long. You can even get to know the hosts before you book through our secure online messaging system.

Each host family has a personal profile on Lingoo.com. So you can see pictures of them, the accommodation, your room, and read reviews from previous visitors. They even tell you all about the things they like doing. So you can choose someone who shares your interests.

Great value...

Lingoo.com offers three great ways to enjoy a Living Language Holiday:

- Language exchange – a two-way exchange between families or individuals where both offer hospitality to each other.
- Living with a teacher – stay in the home of a teacher for structured language lessons
- Stay with a host family – live and eat with a host family for an authentic language and culture homestay.
